COMPLETE PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE HERE

Program at Park to Honor Veterans of All Wars

Antioch's program for Memorial day observance Monday will start at 10:30 o'clock when the line of march will be formed on Main street at the post office, Dr. L. John Zimmerman, Americanism officer of the local Legion and general chairman on arrangements, announced today.

With Arthur Mapletorpe as marshal of the day, and in charge of the firing squad, the parade will be made up of Legionnaires, members of the Legion Auxiliary, Sons of Legion, Antioch Fire Department, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and school children.

The marchers will proceed to the village park where the program will be given at 11:00 o'clock. The speaker who had been engaged for the day has notified the committee that he will be unable to be present, but another speaker has been engaged, it is understood, but his name was not available today.

Pacini Oldest War Veteran

On the platform with the speaker will be John N. Pacini, veteran of the Spanish-American war; Fire Chief James Stearns; Legion Commander James L. Waters; Miss Elizabeth Webb, representative of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Walter Hills, representative of the Legion Auxiliary; and Miss Lottie Jones, representative of the Daughters of the Grand Army of the Republic, and having charge of the flag ceremony in honor of the Unknown Soldier.

With the close of the program and the salute by the firing squad, the flag in the park will be raised to full mast. This week the members of the D. G. A. R. have been decorating all veterans' graves in this community with American flags.

FARM FIRE LEAVES FAMILY HOMELESS

Parents of Seven Lose All Their Belongings in $3,000 Blaze

Local people turned out Tuesday to the assistance of the Zender family, who occupied the Charles Martin house on the State Line road, which was burned to the ground together with its contents. Fire Chief James Stearns reports that the building was covered only partially by insurance, its value being estimated at $3,000 and insurance coverage only $2,000.

The alarm was turned in about 5 o'clock Tuesday evening by Wally Dromi, who was the first to notice the fire, because the occupants were out in the field. The firemen worked under difficulties, due to the fact that they were obliged to haul the water from the hydrant at the corner of Lake street and North avenue. Walter Scott loaned the services of a truck and milk cans to assist in hauling the water.

The fire left Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zender and their seven children bereft of all their household furnishings, clothing and food. Due to the efforts of neighbors and firemen, they have received assistance sufficient to tide them over for the present.

Oliver Hook, Avon Farmer, Dead at 82

Oliver Hook, 82, lifelong resident of Lake county and prominently known as a farmer and cattle dealer, died Sunday morning at his home on Rollins road in Avon township. He was born in Avon township on March 18, 1855, not far from his home at the time of his death.

He was married to Corn Converse at Ivanhoe on March 28, 1877. During his entire life he was active and progressive in agriculture, specializing in dairy and livestock and he became widely known in the county and state.

Besides the widow, he leaves a son, John L. Hook; a daughter, Mary Stanton, the wife of Frank Stanton, supervisor; and four grandchildren, Delbert, Raymond and George Francis Hook and Mitchell Stanton.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon and burial was in Ivanhoe cemetery. Mrs. George W. Jensen of Antioch, sang, accompanied by Miss Jean Abt, organist.

Expert Wood Chopper Nearly Severs Foot

A deflected stroke from a keenly sharpened ax almost severed the right foot of Ira Moran, of Salem township, Saturday when he was doing some clearing work on his premises a short distance north of Liberty Corners.

Moran, 42 year old farmer, was known throughout Kenosha county as an expert chopper. The accident occurred when his ax caught on a limb deflecting the stroke so that it fell on his right foot. He was brought to the office of Dr. D. N. Deering in Antioch where the wound was dressed. One of the bones was completely severed; however, the injury is healing and his chances for complete recovery are good, Dr. Deering said today.

Saturday Is Poppy Day

Flowers Will Be Worn as Tribute to World War Dead

Saturday will be Poppy Day in Antioch and in thousands of other cities and towns throughout the United States. Millions of bright red poppies will be worn in America's annual tribute to the World War dead.

Women of Antioch Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets early Saturday morning with baskets of the memorial flowers, offering them in exchange for contributions to aid the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead. They will continue working throughout the day, giving everyone an opportunity to "honor the dead and aid the living" by wearing a poppy.

Preparations for the observance of Poppy Day here have been completed by the Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. Nason Sibley, general chairman. Poppies will be distributed by women and girls, all working as unpaid volunteers. Money received for the flowers will be used to help maintain the welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary among disabled veterans and fatherless families during the coming year.

The little red poppy worn about our hearts Saturday is the truest symbol of our remembrance for those who gave their lives in the nation's service during the World War. It is their flower. It grew on the fields where they died and it was the only floral tribute on the bare battle graves where they were buried. Auxiliary members are hoping that everyone in Antioch will understand the poppy's significance and wear one with pride Saturday.

GRADE CHILDREN ON OUTINGS TODAY

Four Grades See Cub Game—Others Go on Picnic

The four upper grades at the Antioch Grade school set off in gay spirits this morning (Thursday) to be guests of the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field. The Chicago baseball team sent Mr. Clabaugh sufficient tickets for the children and one adult admission for each twenty children, for the use of a sponsor, as a gift. A small charge will be made to each child going, to pay the expense of extra sponsors, who will furnish cars to take the children.

The lower grades are also celebrating the closing of school with a picnic at Old Settlers Park, today. The caravan of cars is scheduled to leave at 10:30 A. M. and return about the time school would ordinarily close. According to Principal Clabaugh, school will be dismissed for the summer at 2:15 P. M. Friday.

Graduates Banquet at Antioch Hotel

The departing eighth grade will to their successors the right to be "the smartest, wisest and brightest class in school" at their annual banquet held at the Antioch Hotel, Wednesday evening.

The graduates, Mr. W. C. Petty, Mr. Clabaugh, Mr. Panowski and the teaching staff enjoyed an excellent dinner provided by the mothers of the graduates, and were amused by the readings of the class will, prophecy and history.

The mothers who formed the active committee were: Mrs. Walter Selter, chairman, Mrs. Mike Whited, Mrs. Henry Harvey, Mrs. Frank Hunt and Mrs. Nelson Dromi.

COACH COMPANY SEEKS FRANCHISE FOR LAKE REGION

American Coach Co. Files Application With Commerce Commission

Notice of the filing of an application with the Illinois Commerce Commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity, or franchise, for the operation of motor coaches in the lake region by the American Coach Company, was received yesterday by Village Clerk Roy L. Murrice.

The application for the franchise sets forth that the Coach company will operate as a motor carrier of persons and light express between 14 towns, or regularly scheduled stopping points, in or near the chain of lakes.

The time and place of the hearing before the Commerce Commission is to be announced within the next few days and it is expected that several Antioch citizens will be summoned to appear.

In the meantime the Coach company is making preparations to start regular service about June 15. The service to be inaugurated will include two separate but co-ordinated routes. Route one will maintain service between Antioch, Channahon, Lake Villa, Lake Park, Wedges Corners, Gurnee and Waukegan. Route two includes Fox Lake, Ingleside, Long Lake, Round Lake, Hainesville, Grayslake, Wilson and Waukegan.

This is the first coach service attempted in this locality since the Metropolitan Motor Coach company dropped the chain of lakes schedule and applied for a cancellation of its franchise in 1933.

Veteran Railroad Employee Dead at 58; With Soo Line for 40 Years

J. W. Hancock, 58, veteran employee of the Soo Line railroad, died Wednesday in the Garfield hospital in Chicago, from burns he received two weeks ago when he was taking a steam bath.

For the past 40 years he had been connected with the railroad for which his father worked before him. For many years he had held a responsible executive position.

He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Minnie Johnson of Kenosha.

The family lived in Superior, Wis., for 17 years, moving from there to Chicago, and coming to Antioch four years ago. They built a comfortable new home in North Antioch on the site of his father's residence.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at two o'clock from the home, conducted by the Rev. Philip T. Boli of Des Plaines, and interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

BOOM LYONS FOR U. S. SENATOR

An unmistakable boom for Rep. Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville for the Republican nomination for United States senator next year is rapidly developing, both downstate and in Chicago. So far, downstate in the legislature have not been heard to mention any other candidate, seriously. Lyons is well and favorably known all over the state, having stumped it for the Republican ticket in many campaigns. He has also been active in the legislature and has always run well as a candidate in his own district. He has already received pledges of important support in Chicago and downstate.

ANTIOCH BOARD VOTES FUNDS FOR VILLAGE STREETS

Motor Fuel Tax to Be Used for Construction and Maintenance

A three thousand dollar construction and maintenance program for Antioch streets under the Illinois motor fuel tax law was voted by the village board in special session Monday night.

The project, as first conceived by the board, included construction of surface for Spafford and Harden streets and repair and maintenance of North avenue, Orchard street and Hillside avenue; however, the construction on Harden street was abandoned temporarily when it was learned the street had less than the 20 feet traffic base, the width required on streets that are to be improved under the state motor fuel law.

The appropriations were made by the state engineer, including $2,000 for vituminous surfacing of Spafford street its entire length, from Lake to Harden streets; also $910 for the repair and seal-coating of North avenue from Main street east to village limits; Orchard street and Hillside avenue from Orchard to Lake street.

The village will take steps immediately to widen the traffic base on Harden street to the required 20 feet width, Mayor George B. Bartlett said today. The village engineer will stake out the grade lines so that the work may proceed at once and the surfacing construction completed this summer. Local labor is to be employed on the project.

Pension Rolls "Level Off"

Feeling of responsibility of children for parents, improved economic conditions, and a double-barreled check-up for fraud have resulted in the stabilization of the old-age pension system in Illinois, according to State Superintendent. The load will level off to about 115,000 clients by July 1, according to Mr. Andrews and will probably stay at about that figure. Peak was reached in April, 1936, when 120,317 were on the rolls. The individual rate will probably be around $16 a month in the future, and the state's share of the program will cost approximately $11,371,200.

Thus the "More abundant life" simmers down to $16 a month. But the idea got votes last November. Those who thought they were going to get at least $30 a month contributed a large part of the Illinois vote for Roosevelt and Horner. By the grace of the people these men have been holding the feed bag, and those benefiting therefrom expect such a dole system to continue. Hence, the big vote interpreted in some quarters as a "mandate."

And up Goes the Pay Roll

The President and Congress talk loudly of economy, high officials warn that the budget must be balanced, there is even an effort to stop naval construction and hamper national defense to save money; but the government pay roll keeps going up.

There are nearly 5,000 more deserving Democrats on the government pay roll now than there were last July 1. The federally paid personnel jumped 2,860 during March, and the pay roll went up $1,750,000. The New Deal has always been careful not to let its right hand know what its left was doing, and it is being especially cautious just now.

One of our friends who visited Washington recently said his curiosity was aroused by a big crowd of sightseers in the National Museum centering around an exhibit in a glass case. He learned from one of the guides that the exhibit was a balanced budget.

Reckless Drivers Beware

State highway policemen are in the midst of an intensive drive to curb reckless driving, as a group of Illinois motorists—505 of them to be exact—learned last month. The 505 arrests included 360 stop sign jumping; 20 for intoxicated driving; 31 for passenger car speeding; 66 for truck speeding; and 22 for reckless driving. Other offenses, such as parking on highways, driving over the center line, insufficient brakes and the like will come in for close official scrutiny during the summer months.

Farm Relief Jokers

In a recent address, Fred S. Sexauer, President of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., pointed out that state control of agricultural products tends to lower the bargaining power of the farmer.

New York has a milk control law—and now it is under attack from a legion of dairy farmers and cooperative managers. The law was passed with the best intentions in the world—but, according to observers, it has benefited neither consumer nor producer, and often harmed the interests of both.

Cooperative selling groups have come to realize that the road to progress is through their own efforts and mass action—not through laws that often prove boomerangs. Much that has been done in the name of farm relief has proved a drag instead of a lift.

Buying Their Own Security

"Government in the insurance business"—put there by the Social Security Act—hasn't stopped the public from purchasing insurance coverage from private companies in unprecedented amounts.

The largest insurance company in the world closed last year with more life insurance in force than ever before—$21,000,000,000. This is indicative of the experience of other companies.

The American people still want to produce future security for themselves and their dependents through their own thrift, wisdom and savings. This is not a criticism of governmental security—it is just praise for the millions of our people who aren't satisfied to depend on it entirely for their old age.

Where Mountain Lions Live

Mountain lions, variously called cougar, panther, puma, and catamount, range in the large wilderness areas west of the one hundredth meridian. They are hunted chiefly in the Rocky Mountain states and southward through the desert mountain ranges of Arizona, Texas and New Mexico. Farther westward they are less numerous, except in the coastal ranges of California, Oregon and Washington, where they are somewhat abundant.

Independence of the Americans

On November 2, 1777, John Paul Jones sailed from Portsmouth, N. H., with a dispatch for Franklin and his fellow commissioners in Paris, advising them of Burgoyne's surrender. Although he made all possible speed, he was delayed by storms and the necessity of evading British ships, and was almost a month in making the voyage. He was not, therefore, the first to carry the welcome news to Paris, that honor having fallen to John Loring Austin, who had sailed with a duplicate dispatch, from Boston on October 31. It was the news of Burgoyne's surrender that caused France to recognize the independence of the Americans and to give them the aid which helped to assure their ultimate victory.

Queen Elizabeth Named

the State of Virginia.

The name of Virginia was given by Queen Elizabeth at the request of Sir Walter Raleigh to the region discovered in 1584 by persons sent out by him, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The name was applied to what is now North Carolina and was extended over the country northward as far as the present city of Bangor, Me., and southward to what is now South Carolina—on extent of some 11 or 12 degrees of latitude.

One colony after another was carved out of the original Virginia, which for long was simply a geographical name and not a political entity, until it was reduced to the boundaries it had at the time of the Revolutionary War.

Virginia claimed jurisdiction then over all of the Northwest territory by virtue of its first royal charter and by conquest from Great Britain during the war. It ceded these claims to the federal government, but still retained the territory now embraced in Kentucky and West Virginia, which became separate states by later action. The Northwest territory included all of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin and part of Minnesota.

Easy to Teach
Baby Calves to Eat Dry Food

Task Is Simple After Calf Gets First Taste.

Dairymen who visit the Purina Experiment Station always remark on the well-developed calves raised at the farm and question the men in the calf barn how calves can be taught to eat dry feed at such an early age.

"Getting the calf started on dry feed is really a simple task and does not require a great deal of time," says W. R. Andrews, chief raising authority with Purina Mills. "When the calf is four days old the feeder should allow it to suck his finger for a few moments to start the flow of saliva in the calf's mouth. While his fingers are moist the feeder should dip them into calf starter and again let the calf suck them. Thus the calf gets his first taste of dry feed."

Drop Feed Into Calf's Mouth
"The next step is to hold the calf's head up, open its mouth and put a little calf starter on its tongue. The calf starts chewing immediately and is then well started on dry feed," Andrews says. "Finally, the calf's head should be guided into the feeder containing the calf starter, so that thereafter it will know where to find dry feed."

The feeder should drop a little dry feed into the calf's mouth.

No Milk After First Month

By the time the calf is a month old no milk at all is needed because the calf's complete needs are taken care of by the calf starter, hay, water, and a little salt. This eliminates all further work with crutels and bucket feeding, and actually gives the calf a more complete and nourishing feed than milk alone can supply. Milk is about 87 per cent water which means that a gallon of milk weighing eight and two-thirds pounds contains little more than a pound of solid feed. A growing calf needs more solid feed than can possibly be consumed in milk alone. Feeding calf starter, hay, water, and salt along with milk the first four weeks, and then cutting out milk completely and putting the calf entirely on dry feed, eliminates the danger of scours caused by feeding too much milk.

Modern Dog Foods Made
With Numerous Ingredients

"The modern dog needs more than table scraps and a bone a day," says A. H. Leonard, head of the Dog Department of Purina Mills. "In feeding dogs the most important thing to remember is that they require a ration that completely meets their needs."

Animal proteins from meat and milk are important ingredients in modern dog foods. Purine, a rich vitamin A concentrate, is a valuable addition to dog foods. Vitamin A plays a most important part in building up resistance to disease and Purine supplies an abundance of this vitamin.

Cereals in dog food must be carefully processed so that dogs can digest them easily. The dog's digestive tract is not built to take care of cereals in their natural state, yet they need the carbohydrates that cereals furnish. Cod liver oil is also a valuable ingredient in dog food because it supplies vitamin D.

Many ingredients included
"Most dog owners are amazed when they learn how many different in-

Dogs get everything they need for maintenance of body condition, growth, vigor, and resistance to disease, from a single food.

Ingredients are included in modern commercial dog foods," Leonard says, "and many people are discouraged because their dogs are not getting all of them. But the proper feeding of dogs is no longer a mysterious complex business. Manufacturers of modern dog foods include in their products meat, potatoes, vitamins, cod liver oil, salt, minerals, purine, and dried milk. Purine dog food comes in a compressed checker form which makes for a greater convenience in feeding. It is also a complete feed, which means that the dog needs only chow and water for a complete feeding. It is easy to feed and leaves no greasy dishes, a desirable feature in the eyes of the housewife."

Old English Sheep Dog
Bear-Like in Appearance

The origin of the Old English sheep dog, says a writer in the Los Angeles Times, is the same as that of other early herd dogs of Europe and they were first developed primarily to herd and protect cattle. It should be remembered that the dogs attending the flocks were called upon at that time to defend the herds from much larger foes than roam the plains at the present time. Protecting the cattle came first, herding second, and nature had much to do with creating a dog that could exist under the severest conditions.

Cold winds, rain and snow made it necessary that the coat be weather resisting. Which it certainly is with this breed. About all you can see on first sight is hair and more hair. It covers every spot on their body, head, legs and feet. Underneath all the profuse covering is an exceptionally strong and well built body.

The front legs are heavily boned and as straight as any terrier's. The neck is long and graceful, fastened to sloping shoulders with the dog standing lower at the shoulders than at the loin. In size they average around twenty-two inches or more shoulder height, and in measurement they run about the same in length, giving a rather square effect.

Table Mountain
Table mountain, a vast mauve mass, jutting up from the ocean's brilliant blue, generally is the first landmark sighted by the traveler who approaches South Africa by water. So completely do its colossal dimensions hide the hinterland that the Table appears at first sight as an ocean-girt land.

Splitting Birds' Tongues
The United States biological survey says that the popular belief that splitting the tongues of certain birds will enable them to speak words like parrots is without foundation. The tongue of a bird plays little part in the utterance of sounds. Crows, magpies, blue jays, brown thrashers, and some other birds often learn to articulate words and sentences. Crows and magpies in particular can often be taught almost as well as parrots, but their ability in this respect is not favorably affected by any operation performed on the tongue.

Laurel, Emblem of Victory
The laurel was deemed by both Greeks and Romans as emblematic of victory and clemency. The brows of poets, orators, philosophers, sovereigns and priests, as well as warriors, were adorned with wreaths of laurel leaves; for the glories of all grand deeds were signalized by laurel crowns.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 23.

The Golden Text was, "Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul" (Psalm 80:4).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard. Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Psalm 66:8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science reveals Spirit, Soul, as not in the body, and God as not in man, but as reflected by man. The greater cannot be in the lesser. The belief that the creature can be in the lesser is an error that works ill. This is a leading point in the Science of Soul, that Principle is not in its idea. Spirit, Soul, is not confined to man, and is ever to matter" (p. 407).

The local lineup was the same as in the Warren game except that McCormack did the backstop work and Dressel was back in center field.

MEDAL OR MILLSTONE?

A Skytop Republic

Bolivia is known as the skytop republic of South America. With no outlet to the sea, it is reached from Mollendo, Peru, and Arica and Antofagasta, Chile. Chief among the country's attractions are Lake Titicaca, highest navigable lake in the world; La Paz, the capital, and two towns called Sucre and Potosi. The latter was a fabulously wealthy city long before the Mayflower landed its settlers in North America. Lake Titicaca's interest to visitors lies largely in the peculiar beauty of its mirrorlike, rush-fringed waters, in the Indian villages surrounding it, and in nearby ruins of cities belonging to the Tiahuanaco civilization, which antedated even that of the Inca empire. La Paz, the world's highest capital, is notable for its spectacular setting 12,000 feet above sea level, in an amphitheater of crinkled, rust colored rocks and mountains; for its attractive old Spanish churches, with their almost constantly ringing campanile bells.

Comma Form of Insanity

One of the most common forms of insanity is dementia praecox. Known also as schizophrenia, it frequently occurs late in adolescence or early in adult life. Its varying symptoms, says a writer in Pathfinder Magazine, include disintegration of personality, loss of interest in people, inability to take part in social or business affairs, incoherence of thought, silly or depressed behavior, mental delusions, and periods of deep stupor.

Madagascar Lemurs

Madagascar: Lemurs (there are other types in Africa and India) sleep all day; at night, room from their tree homes seeking insects, birds and birds' eggs. Powerful hind legs make them comparatively the best broadjumpers in the animal kingdom. Lemurs got their name from the Latin for ghost, because of their weird cry. Madagascar natives superstitiously avoid them.

Breeds of Horses From Abroad

The breeds of light horses, originating abroad and imported to this country, include the Arab, the English racehorse, or thoroughbred, the high-stepping hackney, and the Cleveland Bay from England; the Shetland pony from the north of Scotland, the French coach horse, and the German coach horse. In addition to these recognized breeds there are the Orloff trotter of Russia, and the dun pony of Norway, both of which are distinct breeds, though not often seen here. Three breeds originating in the United States are recognized by the Bureau of Animal Industry in Washington. Of these the Morgan is the oldest, the remarkable foundation sire to which all of the thousands of registered horses trace back, having been foaled in Springfield, Mass., in 1793. In the middle decades of the last century his progeny were more sought after than those of any other horse.

On April 24, 1918, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Louise Greenwald. He resided at Passetts for a number of years where he was in the employment of the Borden Milk company. In 1927 he moved to Wilmot and has made his home there since that time. But It's True

Because she has gained 130 pounds since 1899, Miss Winston reports that she probably couldn't duplicate the feat today. She was women's bicycle champion of Cornwall at every distance from 100 yards to one mile for seven years. She retired in 1902.

Union Free High School

Over a hundred and fifty couples attended the Junior Prom at the gymnasium on Friday evening. The gymnasium was beautifully decorated with blue festoons of crepe paper and boughs of trees. The hall represented a garden scene with a large umbrella over the table from which punch was served. The lighting effect was carried out in blue. Harvey Beaster, Junior Class president and Doris Berry, lead the grand march, followed by Robert Dean, president of the Senior class and Ardis Lischka, Principal and Mrs. M. M. Schurr came next with faculty members, students and guests. Music was furnished by Benson's orchestra from Bristol.

The annual spring musical festival sponsored by the Music department under Miss Gladys Buffon will be held at the gymnasium Friday evening, May 28. Numbers by the high school band, orchestra, boys' chorus, girls' chorus, and members of the piano class will make up the program.

7,500 Feed Dealers Display Baby Chicks

So great have been the strides in poultry raising in recent years that even workers in the various phases of the industry are amazed at the results. Several years ago, Purina Mills, seeking to give visual evidence to poultry raisers of what modern feed will do for chicks, distributed two thousand small electric brooders to checker board feed dealers. Merchants handling Purina feeds and concentrates were urged to place in these brooders twenty or twenty-five chicks, and to keep them before the public as actual evidence of what good feed will do for a chick.

Displays Now Nation-Wide

The idea became popular in one season. In the succeeding years it has spread rapidly, so that today in almost any town, city, or village where a Purina dealer is located, the public is invited to see, for themselves the profitable results of good feeding. These demonstrations have been an active factor in convincing people that good chicks, good management, and good feeding will bring in extra profits. This season, seventy-five hundred Purina feed dealers all over the United States are displaying brooders filled with growing chicks. These chicks are being fed on startena, fortified with puratene. Above the brooders are charts, showing average government standard weights for chicks at various ages during the first six weeks as compared with the startena fed chicks on display. The chick raising demonstrations now under way in Purina dealers' stores tell an interesting and profitable story to the modern poultry raiser. These 1937 chicks present a nightfall case in favor of modern management, care, and feeding.

Gold Most Malleable

Gold is the most malleable of all metals and the minimum thickness to which it can be beaten with patience and skill is not known for certain. A single grain of gold has been beaten into a leaf having an area of seventy-five square inches. Commercial goldleaf ranges in thickness from 200,000 to 250,000 leaves to the inch.

Wings Replace Legs

R. W. HORNUNG, Lavelle, Pa., has substituted wings for legs. Gimped in a coal mine accident, but undaunted by disaster, the young miner enrolled for an engineering course with the International Correspondence Schools. He established himself as an automobile mechanic, built up a prosperous business as a dealer, and learned to fly his own plane which he regularly uses to get about the country on business trips.

Fireflies, Living Lanterns

Huge fireflies in South America are held by natives as living lanterns through the jungle night, and the women often use glowing beetles as ornaments for their hair.

Hints to Gardeners

By Harm Drees
Vegetable Expert
Ferry Seed Institute

IN a previous article, combined "cropping" with "small garden" vegetables, for the purpose of increasing yield from garden plots of limited size, was discussed. A similar practice may be followed with home garden crops, such as tomatoes, melons, cucumbers, corn, and pepper, which require somewhat more space.

Following are some combined culture recommendations in which vegetables of this type are considered: Sow dwarf peas early in rows four to six feet apart; plant radish between rows of peas, and plant one row of cucumbers between every two rows of peas. Radishes are harvested first, then the peas, leaving all the room for the cucumbers. Cauliflower may be substituted for cucumbers.

Set cauliflower early in rows two feet apart; one foot on each side of each cauliflower row plant spinach; sow radishes between spinach rows. When radishes are used set tomato plants in the space they occupied, properly distanced, of course. Peas or cornplant may be substituted for tomatoes.

Set cabbage plants as soon as practicable in rows two and one-half feet apart. Between cabbage rows sow one or more rows of early radishes. After radishes are pulled plant one row of dwarf beans between every two of cabbage.

Sow early turnips in rows three to four feet apart; later plant a row of corn between the turnip rows. The turnips will be harvested before the corn requires the space.

Plant radishes early in rows eight feet apart; between these rows, at two-foot intervals, plant rows of lettuce or spinach, or both. Plant watermelon seeds in rows made vacant when radishes are pulled.

In all cases of combined cultures, however, care must be taken to give the ground ample supplies of fertilizer, because of the increased amounts which will be required for the multiple crops.

Sat In Archbishop's Lap

Few people are aware of the distinction between the archbishop of Canterbury as "Primate of all England," and the archbishop of York as "Primate of England," and fewer still are aware of the occasion for it, says M. V. Hughes in "London at Home." In 1170, there was a big quarrel between the two archbishops as to which should be chief. At the synod, sat "as in his place, Richard of Canterbury, when in Richard Roger of York, and finding Canterbury so fairly seated, sits him down in Canterbury's lap. Canterbury's servants plucked him thence and buffeted him to some purpose." This unseemly quarrel led to Canterbury receiving the title of "Primate of all England," while poor York had to be contented with being "Primate of England."

Tusks, Horns nuisance

Sometimes the tusks and horns of animals are a constant nuisance to them. Numerous African elephants have tusks so heavy—weighing from 200 pounds to 400 pounds—that the animals are frequently forced to rest them in the forks of trees, while many Hebridean rams have horns that extend so far beyond their muzzles that they cannot graze on level ground.—Culler's Weekly.

TO OPEN FREE FARM FOR DRUG ADDICTS

U. S. Institution in Texas to Be Ready in 1938.

Fort Worth, Tex.—Sometime in 1938, the first patient will enter the new United States $4,500,000 settlement designed to cure narcotic addicts.

The buildings are expected to be under construction by the end of 1937. When completed, there will be room for 1,200 persons addicted to drugs to take treatments and work at the same time. Quarters will be provided for 250 doctors, nurses and other attendants.

The hospital was the answer to a continuous plea from doctors, welfare workers, police departments and citizens. The first such farm was built at Lexington, Ky., to care for federal prisoners addicted to narcotics. The new one, a few miles southeast of Fort Worth, is almost a duplicate of the Louisville plant in plan, but its operation will be considerably different.

"Voluntary" Patients

Patients accepted here will be "voluntary" and many are expected to pay their expenses. Most undoubtedly will be from the list of persons convicted of selling or possessing narcotics. The paying patients will contribute $1 a day to their upkeep and help reduce the government's loss in curing them by tending animals on the farm and making their own clothes in farm shops.

Those accepted must sign a pledge to follow the prescribed treatment and to remain at the hospital until the cure is complete.

Regulations provide that those who are able must pay $1 a day for their upkeep. Narcotic law enforcers, however, believe few addicts will be found with the funds to pay their own way.

The system of cure devised for the Louisville farm by Dr. Lawrence Kolb probably will be followed. The Kolb treatment includes a complete mental and physical examination for each new patient. Many of them have diseases, such as tuberculosis, which must be cured before they are taken off the drug habit.

Two Procedures Followed.

One familiar treatment for those using drugs involves the simple reduction system—giving the addict less and less of the drug he craves until the habit is overcome. Dr. Kolb, however, is one who prefers the "cold turkey" system—an abrupt end to the narcotic supply.

"Drastic methods give the best results," Dr. Kolb said. "By this system a patient is suddenly and completely deprived of drugs. He becomes irritable and restless. He cannot sleep, he sneezes and sweats, and he may collapse, but he usually shows improvement in a few days."

During the treatments the patient usually is given a nonopiate sedative to quiet his nerves, soothing baths and electric ray treatments. Within two weeks a responsive patient is "off the habit." Two months is the most required for even a refractory addict, according to Dr. Kolb.

Remainder of the treatment consists mainly of routine designed to keep former addicts from using drugs. The Fort Worth farm will have cattle and chickens for them to tend; workshops for the men and sewing rooms for the women.

Through these methods the Louisville unit cured 1,048 cases of 1,864 admitted during the first two years.

Lift in Palace Chief

Delight of Princess, 6

London.—Flaxen haired, blue eyed, six-year-old Princess Margaret Rose, daughter of the king and queen, has discovered the delights of running the elevator at Buckingham palace.

The quarters of Princess Elizabeth, ten, and Margaret Rose, are on the second floor of the palace. Their nurses use the self-working electric elevator when they take the children to see their parents on the ground floor.

The first time they used the elevator Margaret Rose gazed silently at the row of buttons. She watched her nurse push one and felt the elevator descending. It was a new and delightful sensation.

When the elevator stopped at the ground floor Margaret Rose refused to leave it. She wanted to push buttons, too. "Let me do it. Let me do it," she clamored.

Finally her nurse gave way and lifted the baby princess in her arms. But Margaret Rose pushed the wrong button and the elevator rushed to the basement. Margaret Rose was delighted.

Now, however, she has learned that the white button is "down" and the black button "up." And it is her daily treat—if she has been good—when she and her sister join the king and queen for afternoon tea, to stand on the seat and work the elevator.

Chinchilla Goes A-Begging

London.—A full-length chinchilla coat, said to be one of less than a dozen of its kind in the world, was offered for auction here recently, but there was no sale. The reserve price was $10,000, and the auctioneer suggested $3,000 as a starting bid, but nobody was willing to offer even that.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Recently a correspondent suggested that I write about what high school students should see while visiting New York. It's rather a large order but I'll try to fill it in part at least. The Battery may be seen and possibly an incoming or outgoing ocean liner. The Aquarium is also at the Battery and there a boat may be taken for the Statue of Liberty, which will afford an opportunity for climbing. The boat also passes close to Ellis Island, the gateway to the New World. Or for a nickel each way, a municipal ferry may be taken to St. George, Staten Island, with an excellent view of the harbor. On the return, there is old Trinity church at the head of Wall street, occupying one of the most valuable pieces of land in the world and with a cemetery going away back into the past of New York. Almost in the shadow of old Trinity is the Stock Exchange, which may be visited during market hours. Across from the Stock Exchange is a statue which marks the place where George Washington took the oath as the first President of the United States.

On the way uptown, a stop should be made at St. Paul's chapel where George Washington used to be a member of the congregation, his pew being marked by the great seal of the United States. Near St. Paul's is City Hall, which goes away back to 1812. Across from City Hall is Brooklyn bridge, the first span across the East river and still doing full service after more than 50 years. If there is time, a walk across the bridge is interesting because of views of the busy river. On the Brooklyn side, there is the navy yard. The Woolworth building, for many years the highest office building in the world, has lost that distinction but many visitors still visit the tower to get a view of downtown New York. Farther uptown is the Empire State building with a tower 102 floors above the street and with a view extending for miles.

A bus ride up Riverside Drive is always interesting and is even more so if there are any warships in port since they anchor in the Hudson. A bus ride up Fifth avenue is also interesting. By making a transfer, it is possible to ride through Harlem, which is the largest colored city in the world. Or, a ride may be taken up to the George Washington bridge, the first and only bridge to cross the Hudson in New York City. A view of the Palisades may also be had on that trip. On the Fifth avenue trip, the bus passes St. Patrick's cathedral and far uptown is the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. A bus top view of New York is inexpensive and worth while.

As for museums, the Metropolitan is naturally the objective of those interested in art. Then there is the Museum of Natural History, which has such an array of exhibits that even days might be spent there. The Hayden Planetarium should not be overlooked by those interested in astronomy or those to whom the stars are a mystery. Still another museum is in Rockefeller Center, the Museum of Science and Industry. Instead of being a "hands off" museum it is a "hands on" place, visitors being invited to operate the various exhibits. It is also a museum of motion since almost all the exhibits can be worked by the visitor.

Bronx Park zoo, with its collection of animals, is worth the long ride out into the Bronx. Downtown again, there is old Frances Tavern where George Washington said good-bye to his officers after the Revolution. It too, is a museum now. Uptown is the Jumel mansion, which was Washington's headquarters. Uptown also is Columbia university. Then trips through the New York Times building can be arranged. Times Square is most interesting at night when all the lights are blazing. As for a play, if it is still running, "King Richard III" should not be overlooked. It's interesting to non-Shakespearean students. And here I am at the end of the space without having covered nearly all the ground. But the suggestions made will keep the young visitors busy for quite awhile. © Neil Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Ban German Stamp

in Czechoslovakia

Prague, Czechoslovakia.—Police confiscated the latest issue of German stamps bearing Adolf Hitler's image.

They took them from stamp dealers' windows, because, they said, each block of four stamps bore a slogan from Hitler's "My Struggle," saying: "He who wants to save the people can only think heroically."

Prague authorities said that was calculated to excite public irritation.

By W. A. Foster, Agriculture Department, University of Illinois—W. A. Foster, D. C.—Realizing that finger prints may be an effective means of identification in case of death or amnesia, increasing numbers of civilians are having their prints recorded at the federal bureau of investigation, a division of the United States Department of Justice that is perhaps better known as "the G-Men," says the National Geographic society.

"Visitors are conducted on tours through the identification division at the rate of several hundred a day. Many remain to have their fingerprints taken. In long chattering lines, business men and their wives, giggling girls, and solemn small boys pass before the recorder with his yellow stamp pad and small white cards marked off into spaces for each finger's print.

"A young girl approaches, holding out red-nailed white hands. The recorder presses her right thumb firmly on the stamp pad and then down on the card, rolling it from right to left. "Just relax, don't try to help me," he instructs her, for if she presses with her thumb, it overinks and smudges the pattern.

"Offer Telltale Evidence. "He takes the marks of her right hand's fingers, one after another, and then those of her left hand, individually. "Next he records, at a single impression, all the fingertips of her right hand, and, with another impression, all those of the left, as a check upon the sequence of the preceding prints. She stares amazed at the dark whorls on the card made by her unstained white fingertips. The colorless chemical solution on the stamp pad acts on the chemically-treated card, but remains invisible on the hand.

"The federal bureau of investigation, with 267,000 sets of fingerprints in its civilian files, is increasing them at the rate of almost 800 a day. The bureau does not search for fingerprints of criminals among the prints in these files, but it may search for them among the prints of civil service employees, which are filed to keep men with prison records from holding positions of public trust.

"Exhibited on the wall of the federal bureau of investigation is a device like a large automobile-mileage-meter. Each time the last number on the right changes, it marks, not another mile, but a new set of criminal fingerprints received at the bureau. The number changes about 175 times an hour. The bureau, on duty twenty-four hours a day, receives during that time about 4,200 new records of people under arrest. These are sent in from more than 10,000 law enforcement agencies all over the United States and from eighty foreign countries.

"It Works This Way. "Imagine that a suspect, Bill Smith, is arrested in Los Angeles. His fingerprints are taken with printer's black ink, which, with his photograph, are rushed to Washington to the federal bureau of investigation. There they will be checked against fingerprints in the criminal files to see if he has a previous criminal record. If the check reveals that Bill Smith is really ex-convict 'Butcherknife Joe,' wanted in New Orleans for murder, two telegrams are sent, one to inform the Los Angeles authorities, another to tell New Orleans officials the Los Angeles police have their man.

"Fingerprints found on weapons, woodwork, glass, and articles near a scene of a crime are also checked against prints in the bureau's criminal files and aid in capturing law violators.

"Since no two fingerprints have ever been discovered whose patterns were identical, fingerprints offer such tell-tale evidence that criminals have tried to change theirs. But they cannot be entirely changed, even by the painful process of removing the skin.

"The federal bureau of investigation has nearly seven million criminal fingerprint records on file, in more than 1,000 great green cases stretching for two city blocks within the building. Only 300,000 of these are records of women, the rest are of men. Workers search through these prints by hand, to check an incoming set of criminal prints against them. If the incoming fingerprints fall into a certain common classification, chiefly the unaltered type of pattern, the search is speeded up by a machine which automatically sorts the cards at the rate of 475 a minute."

Monument to Hen

In Little Compton, R. I., there is a monument to the Rhode Island Red, the first and only monument erected to a hen. The inscription on the tablet reads: "To commemorate the birthplace of the Rhode Island Red breed of fowl which originated near this location. Red fowls were bred extensively by the farmers of this district and later named Rhode Island Reds and brought into national prominence by the poultry fanciers. This tablet is placed by the Rhode Island Red Club."

Check Profit Years

How many years of profitable laying is a good hen good for? Many poultrymen and researchers would like to know, for a 300-egg hen isn't such a good investment unless she remains alive. Cornell University has a hen now in her eighth year with seven good years behind her and still going strong. In seven years this industrious biddy has cracked over 1,401 eggs, an average of 200 a year. Thirty-three other laying birds of the same strain, are four years old or over.

Increasing Number Being Recorded in Washington.

Washington, D. Children Borrow Rats

From Museum for Pets Springfield, Mass.—Lending rats to boys and girls who like them for pets has become quite an extensive practice with Trillside museum, a bureau of the Springfield Museum of natural history.

The museum breeds the rats for study purposes. When a child borrows one he can keep it as long as he likes. Some boys try their luck in training several rats at different intervals, and this is all right with the museum. Some of the rats have been borrowed and returned as many as three or four times.

Hints to Gardeners

Care in Planting

PLANTING and the immediate preliminaries to planting demand care as the first step toward a successful garden.

Though soil may be rich, a gardener will have indifferent success if he does not prepare it thoroughly. The ground should be worked deeply and the top three or four inches should be made as fine and loose as possible. And the best time to whip the weed enemy is while the soil is being prepared, using rake and hoe.

A primary consideration in planting is to have the soil favorably conditioned, that is, damp but not wet. If the soil is too dry, plant when the ground is dry, moisten trenches or drills before dropping the seed, using enough water to wet the soil, but not enough to cause caking.

To retain moisture after planting, cover seeds with fine earth and press down firmly. In small gardens, the firming may be done by laying a board over the row and walking on it. Some have found it a back-saving practice to cover medium-sized seed by drawing a broom over the top of the rows, pulling the dirt onto the seed.

Consider temperature at the time of planting. Too high a temperature is often as detrimental to seed germination as one too low. Generally, a temperature between 65 and 70 degrees is most favorable.

Deep sowing is important and it varies, of course, with different seeds. Generally, seeds approximately the size of turnip seed should be covered not more than half an inch. Larger seeds, such as peas, beans and corn may be planted one to two and one-half inches deep.

Soil must be loose so that stems of seedlings can push through and roots will be able to find plant food. Fluo seed must not be planted when the ground is wet. Where a heavy crust does form, however, it may sometimes be broken sufficiently to let seedlings through by gently pricking the soil with a rake.

There are times when weather conditions render it impossible for seedlings to survive. In such cases, replanting is the only recourse.

New Miracles Of The Photoelectric Cell

By James D. Purdy
Director, Schools of Electrical Engineering, International Correspondence Schools

AN electric eye standing guard against smugglers is one of the unusual features of the new Free Port on Staten Island, New York. A 1,000-watt light casts its beam across 2700 feet of water in a photoelectric cell at the opposite side of the entrance to the port. A launch or other vessel crossing the beam and shutting off the light from the cell, sets off a siren and causes the ringing of a bell to warn the custom guards on duty.

The photoelectric cell has been called into play to prevent lightning from interrupting the broadcasting of radio programs. If lightning strikes the antenna tower the flash is caught by a photoelectric cell trained on a discharge gap at the base of the tower. The cell sets up an impulse which through a complicated mechanism shuts off the transmitter's power for a split second, preventing the station's power from being drained off into the earth, as would otherwise occur. The interruption is so brief that it is imperceptible to the radio audience.

A new type metal-working lathe has been developed abroad, which is controlled by a photoelectric cell and is said to be capable of producing objects as shown by a drawing, without the intervention of the human hand. After the machine has been adjusted, the cell scans the drawing and automatically produces the object in the indicated shape and dimensions.

The stars and a photoelectric cell are utilized to regulate with absolute accuracy a new electronic clock installed for the Pope in Castle Gondolfo. When a certain star comes into the focus of the cell placed at the base of an astronomical telescope, the light of the star causes the cell to set up an impulse which corrects any slight inaccuracy in the clock's timing.

U. S. Debt to France in 1790

Hamilton's report to congress showed that the public debt in 1790 amounted to some $54,000,000, of which about $12,000,000 was owed to foreign creditors, chiefly in France. There was also an aggregate of $21,000,000 of the state debts. Hamilton proposed to add this to the national debt, making $75,000,000 in all, and recommended that the national government assume the state debts. The national debt was paid during the first part of the Nineteenth century.

Hobos Now Pass Up City With Woodpile

Springfield, Ill.—A huge pile of wood is now used to lessen the stream of transient hobos into this city.

Any itinerant who is given a night's lodging is required to chop wood at the city woodpile, which stands in the Salvation Army's yard.

Before the advent of the woodpile an average of 100 hobos daily were bedded at the cost of the city. Now there are about a dozen each night.

Tarantula Bite Holds

No Fear for Zoologist

Minneapolis.—John A. Cederstrom, zoology instructor at the University of Minnesota, is the university's unofficial tarantula keeper.

Excited grocers who have found a tarantula spider in a stalk of bananas are referred to Cederstrom.

"They keep coming in, five or six every year," Cederstrom said. "Every one who finds a tarantula seems to think he has to turn it over to the university."

The instructor explained that either he is immune to the bite of the big spider or his sting is not as poisonous as is popularly supposed. He has been bitten three or four times with no more ill effects than that of a mosquito bite.

Cederstrom permits tarantulas to crawl contentedly on his white laboratory jacket.

"I just put them in jars and watch them," Cederstrom said.

He explained that they escape occasionally by pushing off their jar covers and he has to turn his office upside down to recapture them.

The instructor believes the tarantulas in laboratory jars become homesick for their banana stalks. Many starve themselves to death, he said. Some specimens eat nothing for months, but drink water.

Their favorite food is grasshoppers, with cockroaches second choice.

'Rustlers' Using Trucks

Increase Raids in West

Oklahoma City.—Cattle rustling in Oklahoma has been increasing with the more up-to-date method of using trucks to haul the cattle away instead of a horse to drive them.

Cal. Charles W. Daley, chief of the state crime bureau, said rustlers using trucks had stolen 1,000 head of cattle in the state during the last six months.

He explained that modern rustlers work at night in the thinly settled sections of the state. They concentrate on cattle found wandering along the highways.

"In some ways the problem is greater than in the old days," Daley said. "Then the rustlers drove off the cattle in big numbers. Vigilantes could follow their tracks and sometimes catch up with them."

"But now the trucks enable the rustlers to whisk their loot to market before the ranch owner discovers his herd has been reduced."

Road Study Casts Light

on Auto Tire Punctures

London.—An exhaustive inquiry into the causes and cures of automobile tire punctures has just been concluded in Great Britain by 1,000 roads patrols.

The investigation, confined largely to the main roads of the country, was organized by the Automobile association after it had received many complaints that modern methods of road surfacing, combined with the higher braking power and quicker acceleration possessed by cars, shorten the life of the best tires by several thousand miles.

An analysis of the return shows that three-quarters of the punctures that came under the notice of the observers were in the rear tires, and that of the number two-thirds were in tires on the near side rear wheel.

The explanation was simple. Any loose material on a roadway is scattered by passing cars to the edge of the highway, and the small flints and stone dressing lie there ready to embed themselves in the tires of the cars that follow.

The rear tires, being on the driving wheels, are more prone to suffer first, and the near side tires are those which come into contact with the most generous share of sharp points. The remedy suggested by an A. A. official is more careful road surfacing, with more attention to the sides.

Robert Lincoln's Life

Saved by Edwin Booth

Washington.—A story that the life of Abraham Lincoln's late son, Robert Todd Lincoln, was saved by Edwin Booth, actor and brother of John Wilkes Booth, was told here by persons close to the Lincoln family who asked that their identity not be disclosed.

Robert Lincoln, who was president of the Pullman company, told an intimate associate that as he was boarding a Washington-bound train at Jersey City his foot slipped and he feared that he would slide under the wheels.

Suddenly a firm hand grasped his shoulder and pulled him out. He not only thanked Edwin Booth for the rescue, but remembered the incident until the last days of his life.

HUGHES GRATEFUL TO AG. DEPARTMENT FOR RECOGNITION

Florida Man Reminisces on Early Efforts in Lake County

H. D. Hughes, who was born in Antioch Township which was his home for many years, feels grateful for the recognition he received recently by the agricultural department of the Antioch township High school at the Father-Son banquet.

From his home in Lynn Haven, Florida, Mr. Hughes writes as follows:

Lynn Haven, Fla., May 21, 1937
 Through the columns of The Antioch News I would like to thank the Agriculture Department of the Township of Antioch High school for the Certificate of Recognition for Honorary Service in the field of Agriculture for what I tried to do to help agriculture on its upward way. While on the Board of Directors of the Illinois Farmers Institute I met such men as Cyril G. Hopkins and Dean Davenport and other noted men in the work, and one could hardly fail to absorb something of the spirit that actuated them in their great work.

Four score and four years ago I was born in a snow storm, on the 24th of April on the farm now occupied by Alex G. Hughes, and I have in later years tried to keep as far away from winter as possible.

About the only regret that I had in leaving Lake county was that I must drop that honorable office. I am still trying to farm in a different way on different soil of which is casava, a plant that comes from Java, from which tapina is made, and at the same time produces a large crop for the feeding of poultry and cattle, as well as hogs. We have been eating our own berries for some time, strawberries, young berries, Boysen berries, and our early crop of ripe peaches is about gone. But the apple, the kind of fruits, we cannot raise. For the past week or two I have been running a disk behind a Model A Ford trying to subdue the native wire grass that forms as tough a sod as one ever meets, so that we may plant more profitable crops.

It has been said that farm work can be done with mules at half the cost of doing it with horses, and that it can be done with oxen at half the cost of the mules. So we are using oxen. Having bought a yoke of calves for twelve and a half dollars that have grown into quite sizable cattle, as they did our plowing and harrowing.

Again thanking all and in particular L. O. Bright and C. L. Kutil, I remain as ever,
 H. D. Hughes.

Coil of Snakes

The rattlesnake is typical of the snakes that coil before striking. As soon as it is alarmed, it throws its body into a coil, with head raised a little above the rest of the body. When ready to spring, the muscles of the upper part of the snake are suddenly contracted, so as to straighten the body abruptly and thrust the head forward in a direct line. As the upper part of the body only is employed, the snake never strikes at a greater distance than one-third to one-half its length.

Among Coral Formations
 There are strange alliances down among the coral formations. The sponge-like sea anemones grow to large size in these tropical waters; some are two feet in diameter. They are armed with stinging tentacles, and they feed on small fish and crustaceans which have been shocked helpless by the hair-like darts shot at its victims by the anemone. Certain species of tiny fish swim into the apertures in the anemone when danger threatens, and the creature gives them sanctuary and never harms them, permitting them to seek shelter deep down among the death-dealing tentacles. Larger fish chasing them are captured, killed, and eaten by the anemone.

Location of Garden of Eden
 This is a controversial question. Some scripture students have suggested the Island of Ceylon, others Argbla, and more recently the claim was made that Mesopotamia was the original site.
